WASHINGTON. - U.S. Secretary of State Cyrue Vance and Ierael Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan are ecbeduled to mset today amid grow-ing U.S. fears that the latest Israell-Syrian dogfight over Lebanon could spark a nsw round of all-out bostilities there.

Vance, who had asked to meet with Dayan before the dogfight occurred, wants to have an in depth "and henrt-to-bsart" discussion on Lebanon, according to well-placed U.S. officials, Assistant Secretary of Stata Harold Saunders and Israeli Ambassador Ephraim Evron are also expected to participate in the meeting, which will take place at the U.S. mission to the UN.

U.S. officials yesterday said that Vance will be exploring in New York the possibility of a naw U.S. initiative in Lebanon designed to replace most of the Syrian-dominated Arab peacekeeping force there, with an expanded UNIFIL presence.

Yesterday U.S. officials cautioned, bowever, that implementation of such a proposal would be difficult and that there is no immediate possibility of achieving it. Vance discussed the proposal, according to U.S. officials, with UN Secretary-General Waldheim yesterday.

Both Dayan and Vance are in New government. Vance addressed the Intelligence chlef Saguy said last night that the Syrian declelon to enter into comhat with Israel was linked to Syrla's unstable internal situation. He also said that this time, as in June, the Syrians sought battle on the eve of a planned visit by Presldent Assad to the Soviet Union to ask for more arms.

"Israeli aupremacy in the alr makes the Syrlan president's demands for sophisticated technology from the Soviets more credible and urgent," Saguy noted. , On June 27 this year Israel downed five MIG-21s and hit a sixth. From then until last week the Syrians had refrained from engaging Israell alrcraft on routine missions. Two Israeli aerial bombardments of terrorist camps during this period also went unchallenged.

In answer to a question, Saguy said he was not convinced that the Syrians would introduce antlaircraft missiles into Lebanon as a result of this latest fight.

Observers in Israel noted that both the army spokesman and the officers briefing the press last night went out of their way to mantion that American-made F-15s downed the Syrian aircraft. Until now Israei has always heen careful not to mention which planes took part in specific actions.

The U.S. has been highly critical of Israel's policies in Lehanon and of the use of American planee to carry them out.

"We paid a lot of good money for these planes," the chief of staff said last night. "They are expensive to train on and expensive to run, and we don't intand to use them like thieves in the night."

Post Diplomatic Reporter

The Jesse Jackson episode was described to The Jerusalem Post by a senior official privately yesterday as "one of the more Kafkaesque epleodes in Israel's diplnmatic calendar."

Jerusalem officiale, who understood last week that Foreign Minister Moehe Dayan wanted Jackson treated as though he did not exist, learnt middenly from news agency reports of Dayan's interview with ABC'n Barbara Walters, that he favoured extending "logistic ald" to Jackson and his party. However, as it turned out yester-day, Jackson had no need of sucb logistic aid, sincs his travel agent and his public relations staff had everything fixed up except for trivial details.

The Post's enquiries among senior officials in Jerusalem threw light on the bizarre way the Jackson visit had been handled from the outset. Israel's am bassador ln Washington, Ephraim Evron, cabled

Jackson was planning to visit Israel now. Evron said that Jackson would like to meet with Premier Menahem Begin, and perhaps some of his senior colleagues too.

Evron rscommended in the strongest terms that Jackson be given red carpet treatment with all the trimmings. Evron wrote that the black leader should be given inter-views as be requested, and that a very senior official in the Foreign Ministry, in Dayan's personal confidence, should be assigned to coordinats the schedule of the visit, to snsure that Jackson saw and heard

Liberation Organization, if the PLO accepted UN Security Council resolution 242, renounced the use of terrorism and modified its covenant, which calls for Israel's destruction. Davan, Interviewed on NBC's 'Today'' show, did not specifically say that, under such circumstances Israel would deal with the PLO, but that was clearly the impression be left. His remarks indicated to some observers a possible softening of the Israeli position toward the PLO. Prime Minister Menahem Begin and other government spokesmen have flatiy ruled out any Israeli recognition of the PLO - no matter what conditions are met.

Dayan's comments yestsrday appeared to be more in line with the so-called "Yariv-Shemtov formula" of several years ago on dealing with the PLO. As such, they are bound to stir up some controversy in the Israeli cahinet.

Asked whether Israel would deal with the PLO if the PLO accapted resolution 242, Dayan replied that the U.S. would then establish nant the number one objective, the destruction of Israel, I don't think we should have any contact with them even if your people (the U.S. government) will have contacts with them once they do recognize resolution 242."

Dayan, currently in New York for the UN General Assembly opening, then noted that this was the "distinction" hetween the U.S. and Israeli policies toward recognizing the PLO. What was potentially significant in the Dayan ramarke, some diplomatic observers here noted was the fact that hs did not totally rule out - under all circumstances Israell contacts with the PLO.

Asked about his recent controversial meetings on the West Bank and Gaza with PLO sympathizers, the foreign minister said that the PLO is an illegal organization in Israel. But, he said, any Israell citizen, including himsslf, could meet with a local Palestinian who supports the PLO "as long as we don't have him under arrest."

No mention of Pinto in Cabinet By ASHER WALLFISH

Jerusalem Post Reporter Press predictions that the affair of Segen Daniel Pinto, the officer sentenced for murder after last year'a Litani operation, would come up at yesterday'a cabinet session, proved to be unfounded. One of the ministers present explained to The Jerusalem Post: "I suppose that the Rosh Hasbana-Yom Kippur period could bave inhibited any of the ministers who might have planned to hring the matter up." A good part of yesterday's session was classed as a session of the Cabinet Security Committee whose proceedings are secret. The Pintoaf-fair might conceivably have been mentionsd in that part of the session, despite the denials issued. Cabinet Secretary Arych Naor told reporters yesterday aftsmoon that "the name Pinto was not mentioned at all in the cahinet room and the name of the chief of staff -- If it was mentioned -- was not mentioned in connection with the Pinto affair."

Ministry technicians threaten blackout of TV tonight

By JOSHUA BBILLIANT Jerusalem Post Reporter TEL AVIV. - The Communications

Ministry technicians union has threatsned to interrupt thie evening'e television broadcasts unless it reaches an agreement with the government over ite demands for better pay and promotion conditions.

The union eaid it will decide whethar to hold a staff meeting during broadcasting hours following this afternoon's meeting hetween ths Histadrut trades union department and the Civil Service Commission.

It thraatened gradual escalation of its action. "Eventually we will call a general strike" of the 30,000 technicians all over the country union secretary Zalman Shankman told The Jerusalem Post.

Yesterday, the union stopped radio broadcasts from noon to 2 p.m. The union'e members work at transmitting stations around the country and are Communications Minietry employees. Technicians who work at Israal Radio and TV liself are Broadcasting Authority workers and have their own, separate union

Meanwhile, the Civil Service Union said its 60,000 members should get the same IL6,000 bonus proposed for government lawyers signing up for three years. It threatened to fight for the increase if the draft agree ment on the bonus for the lawyers is signed. The sum involved is "aquivalent to the average monthly take-home pay of a middle-rank clvil servant," Reuven Ben-Ami, the union's secretary, told The Post yesterday.

Ramat Gan cardiac unit takes holiday

The Jerusalem Post

RAMAT GAN. — The emergency mobile cardiac rescue unit operated by the Magan David Adom station here dld not work during Rosh Hashana, because thera were no available doctors, Zvl Stappenholz, a senior official of the station said vesterday.

During those two days, ten calls were received by the station from peoplo who had suffered heart attacks. Steppenholz said that they were picked up by ordinary 'am-bulances and taken to the nearest hospital. He refused to eay what had happened to them or if any of tham had died as a result of not recaiving treatment quickly enough.

Doctors for the emergency unit are provided under an agreement between MDA Ramat Gan and the cities of Ramat Gan, Givatayim, Bnei Brak, and the Sheha Medical Centre at Tel Hashomer. Dr. Shlomo Bahar of the Tel Hashomer cardiac department, who is responsible for madical supervision of the rescue unit, confirmed that no doctors had heen available to work on Roeb Hashana.

"It's very complicated. I can't explain over the telephone why lt' happened," he said, but Bahar declined to meet with a Jerusalem Post reporter to discuss why no doctors had been available.

"In case of heart attacks. the faster the patient can be given treatment, the better the chance is of saving his life," one doctor who did not wish to be idantified told The Post yesterday. In the case of the Ramat Gan unit, it seems certain that 10 heart attack victims did not receive treatment as quickly as they would have bad the unit been in operation. Thus the danger to their lives was increased.

A mesting is due to take place to-day between Sheba Medical Centre and MDA officials to discuss the issue. Meanwhile, an MDA official said that the service definitely would work on Yom Kippur.

Agreement reached with technicians Short-wave broadcasts to Americas at prime time

By JUDY SIEGEL Jerusalem Post Reporer

A 20-page agreement betwesn the Broadcasting Authority management and the technicians that was approved yesterday will enable Kol-Yisrael listeners in North and South America to hear short-wave broadcasts during prime time evening hours, and allow Israel TV broadcasts have to run late, if necessary until 12:30 a.m.

Viewed as a triumph by authority director-general Yoeef Lapid, the agreement will bring Kol Yisrael to its American audience at the most popular tima of day for the first tims since the Yom Kippur War. The prims time broadcasts had existed only during the war emergency.

The authority's board of directors approved the agreement, which will reportedly cost approximately IL5m. a year in overtime payments for radio technicians and involve a complicated scheme of new working conditions.

Lapid called the agreement a "hig step forward in improving the ties between Israel and the Diaspora." He also praised the techniciana' works committee for auccessfully concluding the tortuous negotiations. Under the agreement affecting Israel TV, technicians will no longer hlack out the screen when programmes begin after the stroke of midnight.

Jackson to meet pro-PLO leaders on West Bank

By LAN BLACK

Jsrusalsm Post Reporter Rev. Jesse Jackson, the American hlack leader who arrived in Israel yesterday, is to meet with several! promineot West Bankers during his visit here.

They aaid that Jackson would visit Nablus tomorrow morning to talk to the city's deputy mayor and head of the local chamber of commerce, Zafer al-Masri. Mayor Bassam Shaka is currently in Jordan on municipal husiness.

The U.S. clvil rights leader will be escorted to Nablus by Mohammed Milhem, the mayor of Halhoul, whose fluent English and open suppori for the PLO regularly attract visiting celebritles interested in hearing an Arab account of life in the administered territories.

Milhem, who is not popular with

West Bank leaders available for Jackson to meet. Many of those nor-mally included in visits of this kind are currently abroad attending pro-Palestinian meetings in Rome and Vashington.

Jackson's visit to South Lebanon today follows last week's meeting in Beirut between PLO leader Yasser Arafat and a delegation of black clvil rights activists led by Dr. Joaeph Lowery. The Americans invited Arafat to come to the U.S. and

The two-bour dialogue was tense and sometimee emotional as the extent of the black participants' alienation from Israel's position hacame manifest. It was, however, a civilized and possibly even a highly rewarding exchange, in that both sides were given eubstantial food for thought. For the Israelis, the presentation hy Jackson and his party, which included hlacks and whites, should have served as a clear war ning signal that American public opinion is shifting dangerously. leader Christians. But they were a little bazy about his placs in the overall picture. They wanted to know if Jackson could meet him "at the Allenby Bridge.'

. The aenior officials campaigning in vain to upgrade the Jackson visit. who subsequently bave gone on record toeing the line and backing Dayan's hnycott, advanced the following arguments among others: · Had Jackson been fixed up with an official tour schedule, he would have been shown important sites like Yad Vashem and Kibbutz Lohamel Hagetaot. Visual TV and photo records of Israeli ministers receiving Jackson would have chown that Iaracl respected him as a person even if she did not accept his advice.

• Israel's official disregard for Jackson would increase his publicity. There was no sense in hoycotting him since the boycott was not mak-ing him cancel his trip. • The denias of an official welcome for Jackson would convince many American blacks that Israclis and Jews treated them as lightweights.

A mseting with Jackson does not ohlige Israsl to accept any of his views, just as it did not accept the views of many foreigners who were accorded high dignities here.

• Dayan was preventing Begin from talking to Jackson although be himself talked to PLO sympathisers in the areas without as much as a 'by your leave."

 Although the Israel visit might not make Jackson change his views; it might lead him to feel that the PLO is not ali it claims to be.

Although Jackson had made prejudiced statements and prima facie anti-Semitic utterances in the past. he is far from bsing an inclter and an active anti-Semite.

Woodman spare those trees! Scheme to thin forests is shelved

HAIFA. - It's going to be a happy new year for the country's 350,000 dunams of natural forests. The woodinan's axe which has been poised over many of the trees, in a highly controversial water conservation scheme, has been quietly put hack in its sheath and the trees and shrubs have heen reprieved, The Jerusalem Post has learned.

In the spring of 1975, the Agriculture Ministry's soil conservation department came out with a echeme to thin nnt the natural forests, cutting down about one-third of the trees and turning the regained land into natural grazing for beef cattle. The department experts claimed at the time that the plan would save soms 80 million cubic metres of rainwater a year. The grass which would replace the trees nceds less water and cauaes leac evaporation, they said.

They also claimed that the water saved would be much chcaper than currently available water supplies, while the grazing would provide the country with extra beef. The plan lsd to a major public controversy.

5.000,000 cubic metres a year lost

At a Technion symposium on the subject, in March 1975, conservationists vebemently opposed the "meddling with nature" scheme and an expert of the Hebrew University'e Centre for Groundwater Research also disputed the water-saving estimates, putting them between 5m.-

20m. Cuhic metres annually. As a result of the violent opposition evoked hy the scheme, It was later decided to test its potential in a pilot project in the Kabri hasin, near Kibbutz Kabri in western Galilee, covering 3,000 dunams. Several million pounds were allocated for the three-year try-out. This week, soil conservation department experts conceded that the area had been too small to draw conclusions and another pllot programme, covering 10,000 to 30,000 dunams, would have to be run before a final decision could be made.

The experts conceded that the. water savings would apparently not be as large as their original estimates. Nnr had they been able to establish properly, on the small pilot sobsme, where the saved rainwater runs off to. It was also not yet clear how the thinned-out forest areas would be kept clear of new brusb and tree growth, or whether cattle breeding on ths projected grasslands would be economical.

هكا من لتحل

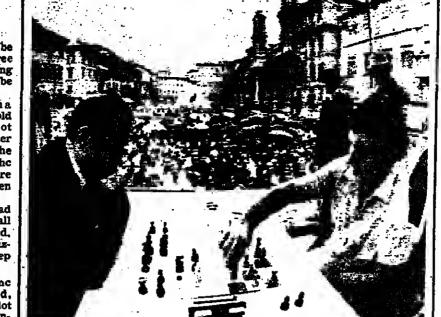

One of the experts, who bad been a major proponent of the scheme, told The Post that though the pllot scheme had shown that less water than expected could be saved, "the schems is still economical from the water saving point of vlew, but there are other considerations to hs taken into account too."

He claimed the Kabri try-out had shown that 20 per cent of the rainfall going into the forests could be saved, provided there was sufficient grazing on the reclaimed lands to keep down new natural growth.

But is is now clear that the scheme has hesn-quietly shelved, for at least three reasons: the pflot scheme results had not heen as encouraging as the experts had expected; there are no funds available for the bigger tryout they now con-sider necessary before putting the axe to more than 100,000 dunams of trees, and thers is continuing bitter opposition to the scheme from conaervationist and ecological circles.

Opposition to Ehrlich grows in Liberal Party

By SARAH HONIG Post Phlitical Reporter

TEL AVIV. -- Opponents of Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich within his own Liberal Party will this afternoon propose that the party's central committee approve in principle demands for personnel changes in the government

The move. a delaying action designed to turn away criticism that his colleagues are acting behind Ehrlich's back in his absence abroad, is expected to lead to open rcbellion and a move to oust Ehrlich from office in about a fortnight when he returns

The anti-Ehrlich group consists of supporters of his former deputy. Yehezkel Flomin, the group led by Energy Minister Yitzhak Moda'i, and other MKs, including Menahem Savidor.

Their proposal would entrust the party executive with the drafting, within a fortnight, of a decision calling for a government re-shuffle. which would, in turn, be submitted for the central committee's approval early in October.

Then, with Ehrlich hack, his ouster will be openly touted. This afternoon's meeting promlees political fireworks, with the four Liberal ministers, Ehrlich, Moda'l. Patt (Industry, Trade and Tourism) and Nissim (without portfolio), asked in June to move on implementing the party's economic principles, now eupposed to give a progress report. There is general agreement that the ministers will have little to sbow, and heated exchanges are expected when Minister without Portfolio Moshe Nisslm, chosen to make the report, speaks.

Much of the friction between the Liberal ministers is attributed to the idea, credited to Ehrlich, that they should all resign at the end of the 90day grace period set in June. Moda'l, especially, but also Patt, are unwiliing to go along with this plan.

Patt is reportedly soon to be under attack by the Likud's Histadrut faction which will, in about a fortnight, blame him for recent price hikes. They eay his ministry has falled to impose viable price controis, and that he is not in control of the situa-

'Shock treatment' needed to fight inflation—Ehrlich aide

By SHLOMO MAOZ Post Economic Reporter

Ephraim Dovrat, economic adviser to Finance Minister Simba Ehrlich, hae proposed that the development budget be cut by a whopping IL10b.

In a memorandum he submitted to Ehrlich, Dovrat said that while inflation could be slowed down by more moderate measures, this drastic action is necessary to jolt the public into an awareness of what the government is doing.

Dovrat's memorandum was submltted in connection with the cabinet'e discussion on Sunday of last week on how to figbt inflation. It was prepared in connection with the proposal of Deputy Minister Yoram Aridor for a sbarp cut in the development budget.

Dovrat believes that shock treatment is needed. In addition to cutting the development budget, he proposes a series of other measures, such as raising taxes, reducing government "transfer payments" (be does not : specify which), raising the prices of basic commodities, and adopting a tough wage policy. A IL10b. cut in the development budget would put 11,000 workers out of work directly, and another 16,000 indirectly, Dovrat thinks. Haif of them, however, would be from the administered areas, and could find other work there.

Dovrat guessee that at first workers would not be dismissed, but that "hidden unemployment" (workers who are partially or com-pletely idie) will rise, bringing productivity down.

He forecasts that the steps outlined would bring unemployment, which now stands at 2.8 per cent, up to 4.5 per cent. He warns that care must be taken not to alide from a planned slow-down to a depression, as happened in 1966.

If large numbers of workers lose their jobs, Dovrat says, some of them can be employed in the Negev redeployment activity, instead of Imported labour, and others can find work in home-building, a sector that is still short-handed. ---

Menten retrial off, sick plea accepted

ROTTERDAM (Reuter). -Rotterdam court yesterday decided that 80-year-old Dutch millionaire Pieter Menten was mentally unfit to stand trial a second time today on war crimes charges.

Three court-appointed doctors ex-amined Menten when he cialmed he was not fit enough to stand trial again. But a Justice Ministry spokesman eaid the public prosecutor will appeal the Rotterdam court'e ruling to the Dutch Supreme Court.

Menten, a diabetic, was convicted in December 1977 of helping kill some 30 Poles, mostly Jews, in 1941, when he worked as an interpreter for the Nazis in Poland. He was jalled for 15 years, but a Hague court annulled the verdict last December, saying the Dutch Justice Ministry had granted him immunity in the early 1950s, and the Supreme Court ordered a retrial.

Janssen, the young Dutch woman who recently served three years in an Israeli prison for aiding a terrorist organization, said yesterday that she was still devoted to the Palestinian cause "but not the way I was in 1976." She told Dutch newspapers that ahe could be more effective by "making people conscious of what is bappening to the Palestinians and making clear that theirs is not an isolated struggle for freedom, but that this kind of struggle goes on in so many other places in the world." Jannsen maintained that Israeli policy is aimed at eliminating the Palestinians. "If it can't be done physically, they do it psy-chologically," she said.

On the charge that the information she was gathering would have led to the hijacking of an aircraft, sbe said, "The fate of the innocent people involved in such a hijacking would have been in the bande of the Israelis. If they had met the demands, nothing would have happened.

."That is how I answered for myself in this case. It's different from throwing a bomb. Then you know beforehand that there will be victims," she was quoted as saying.

Bokassa finds home in Ivory Coast

BANGUI, Central African Republic (Reuter). - Reports yesterday thet emperor Bokassa was condemned to death by Central Africa'e new rulers yesterday were denied by the country's new president as the ex-dictator flew into the Ivory Coast and extle.

Bangul went wild with joy as the death aentence was announced but there was mounting snger that France had let the ousted tyrant slip through lie fingers and take up the Ivory Coast's offer of refuge.

But Preeldent David Dacko, 49, who ended the emperor's 14-year rule in a French-backed coup last Thursday, denled the death centence report. Before Dacko's press conference, the state radio ran hourly reports that Dscko, Bokassa's nephew, had eentenced the exile to death.

- Bokasss, he ssid, had been found gullty of raping, etealing and looting — but there was no mention of the evidence that he ordered and probably took part in a massacre of school-children last April.

The ex-emperor strived in Abidjan within bours of the desth centence announcement after spending two days on a French airstrip while France, refusing him entry, cast around for someone willing to take him ln.

The Ivory Coast Dsmocratic Party sald its political bureau, after long deiiberations with ministers, religious leaders and the national women's association, unanimously asked President Felix HoupbouetBoigny to grant Bokassa political asylum "for humanits rian reasons." In Paris, informed sources said Bokassa'e wife Catherine hed made preesing appsals in the name of her children" to Houphouet-Bolgny by telephone from France.

In the past 16 years, the West African nation has granted asylum to three deposed presidents of Dahomey inow Benin), Hubert Maga in 1963, Christophe Sogio in 1967 and Emils Derlin Zinsou in 1969. President Nicolas Grunitsky of Togo also went to the Ivory Coast when overthrown in 1967, and Bisfran leader Odemegu Ojukwu when his secession sttempt from Nigeria

COMENT

FIRST LADY Ofira Navon deserves our thanks for the good idea of inviting the Jerusalem Horticultural Society to visit the President's garden and having informal lectures given by gardening experts. And Mrs. Mina Givton should be congratulated for the organization of an ad hoc exhibit of rare evergreens and flower plants as the society's gift to the President's garden. (The visit, on September 18, was reported in the Jerusalem Post.)

Such an event, I believe, should become a traditional annual event, which would be appropriate as part of popular bikurim festivities, just as in Temple times the people of the Land of Israel brought their first harvest to Jerusalem to dedicate them to the High Priest.

I also would recommend that local gardening enthusiasts concentrate more on plants mentioned in the Bible, like roses and lilles, than on English primroees and alpine strawherries. The President's garden already contains two representatives of biblical flora - the cedar of Lebanon (cedar wood was used in building of King Solomon'e temple) and the "eternal" olive tree (first mentioned in the Bibls in the story of Noah)

A 100 years ago people began ex-hibiting house plants and flowers in England, a beginning that led to the famous international flower shows at Chelsea, Kew Gardens, Windsor Castle, etc. and helped the develop-ment of gardening in England and it's leading role in horticulture. No doubt renewing the biblical tradition of bikurim in the President's garden would boost horticulture bere.

Garden hygiene. With autumn here again, we chould try to find time for a clean-up campaign in the garden during October. Large numbers of insects and other peste like to spend the winter under old boards; sticks, rocks; bricks, in crevices among weed growth - in fact everywhere that affords protection from natural predators like birds and shelter from the cold. Many of these pests are now in the egg stage or commencing to hibernate. Hence removal of such protection will balp to lessen the size of their population next spring, and will go a long way toward reducing plant diseases

Walking through your garden dur-ing the mlid weather of late September, pleased with your flowers and vegetablee, you may quickly recognize that you are not the only one who anjoys them. There are many unwanted companions, A multitude of insects are out to kill your young seedlings, to eat your flowers, damage your fruit trees, endanger your lawns and eat your leafy vegetables before you even have bad an opportunity to harvest them.

What can be done? The pests are many, and they differ with the botanical family of each plant. Some insects are not fastidious and attack all healthy leaves and stems, like the Agrotis caterpillars. Others damage a special plant family only, like the caterpillars of the cabbage butterfly. Sometimes it seems that the enemy is lying in ambush in your garden, and each plant has to fight it's specific aggressor. But things are not always as bad as they eecm. Just as a bealthy person can quickly and easily ebake off an infection that attacks him, so a healthy plant will frequently withstand the onslaughts of disease or insects. Your ain should be to grow all your plants so well that they remain strong and healthy for the whole of their useful Me. Unlike humans, however, any plant that is sickly and likaly to infect others, should be cured or athlesaly removed from the garden d burned. (Don't threw infested te onto your compost beap!) fewer problems in the field of large gardans somewbere in Countryside.

will epare many troubles for you and your plants.

Whom to fight and how. Fruit trees heavily cropping plum trees. Whole branches wilted and minute holes are frequently damaged in spring by caterpillars of winter moths. Each of these caterpillars spins two leaves together and cats holes in the edges with small heaps of yellow or brown sawdust indicate the danger. Behind and centres of them. In cerious cases this damage is a dangerous boring everything green on the tree may be beetle, Apate monochus (opato hagd'olah in Hebrew), which can be more or less controlled by widening caten by the end of May, crippling cropping. When fully fed and grown (in late May), the caterpillare use the boles and filling them with poieoned balt. Commercial fruit their own "cable cars." They desgrowers use piran pills, marketed in cend on self-produced, sllken tbreads and pupate in the coll beneath the trees. It is, therefore, Israel by Hamasbbir. Afterwards the boles should be closed with most important to turn the soil fremodelling clay or tree wax. Many people also try to kill the boring inquently around fruit treee. Young sect by inserting a thin wire into the moths emerge from the chrysalids (golem in Hebrew) the following hole. Others widen the holes, insert a piece of cotton wool soaked in ben-zine and immediately close the hole autumn. I am giving you this information well in time to help you to with tree wax. The benzine fumes prevent future damage. The first moths will appear from chrysalids in probably kill the beetle. Another reader asked me to ex-plain "the sudden dying" of his lawn, the soll during the next two weeks (early Octobar), reaching full maturity in November. Disturbing the honeymoon. The male moths have big wings and fly to the top of the trees to walt passionately for their brides. The almost wingless, much smaller females look more like spiders than moths. They crawl up the trunks to . the smaller tree branches and young sprouting eboots. They mate there with the males and later lay clusters of fertile eggs in the crevices of the tree bark. Now comes your role in preventing these honeymoon activitles. The grease bands. Bind a broad linen etrip (about 20cm. wide) around the tree and epread it with a thick layer (about 1cm. thick of or-dinary grease, the kind used to grease cars or machinery). This chould trap the wingless femalee as they crawl up from the soil. Place the greased band about one metre above ground level. Make sure moths can't crawl under the band. Ensure that it remain eticky by scraping the band periodically and smearing on mora grease. Whila trees are dormant, they can be sprayed with a lime solution to control eggs left on them. Wood borers. A reader recently-asked me about one of the most readers, Hydrospan can be bought at "Am-Do" Ltd. P.O.B. 740, Jerusalem, phone - 02-537214. Compost. Since October will dangerous troubles in our orchards definitely be clean-up time in the garden, compost production chould -- wood boring insects, which be bad found in his well-established and receive attention now. Its value as a source of burnus, that most valuable of coll components, cannot be overstated.

A soll regularly aupplied with properly made compost is an extremely good growing medium for all plants. An existing compost bin or compost heap should be emptied (the material used for rosee, trees and shrubs or on the plants we shall grow in autumn) and made ready to receive all the coming fall leaves and spent summer annuals. This should ensure a good supply of com-post for next spring. Establish a compost beap or bin in your garden just now. if you haven't already got one.

insects bave the ability to develop immunity against insecticides used for a prolonged period. Today most farmers and gardanars in Israel use malathion spray, which is available everywhere in Israel's seed shops and nurseries. (Be careful with poisons in the garden and keep them out of reach of children!)

Miracle gardening. A few months ago local newspapers described an American borticultural invention, Hydrospan Super Slurper, a new compound capable of absorbing bundreds of times its own weight in water. It is now available here. You may better grasp its value when I tell you that if you treated house plants, balcony containers, banging baskets or even flowers or vegetables in garden beds with this powder, you could leave them unattended, without watering, for up to a month. It's difficult to believe, but studies conducted at the Iowa State University's Department of Agronomy showed that plants grew even for elx weeks without watering. This invention may solve all boliday problems connnected with watering of your plants while you are on vacation. Hydrospan has been tested also for indoor plants and for flower arrangements. The moisture retain-ing ability of this powder, which quickly forms a kind of gel with a slight addition of water, le eensational. Since the raw material for Hydrospan can be found in Israsi, it will soon be produced locally and may be cheaper than the imported product. Negotlations bave been started also with the producers of vermiculite and perlite in Israel, the Habonim company, and with producers of fertilizers, for produc-ing an ideal planting medium, free of dirt and weeds, containing the necessary general plant food, as well as a moisture-retaining capacity tenfold greater than the best growing material we know. CAIRO. - "The Magician of Lubiin" will not be shown at this year'e Cairo Film Festival. Although a representative of Golan-Globus Productions in Tel Aviv, the company which produced the film, has been trying for a wsek to free it from customs, all six reels of the film remain held up at Cairo Aiprort.

The film, starring American actors and financed by American in-vestors, is directed by the Israell, Menahem Golan. It arrived in Cairo on September 14 as "accompanied baggage" and was promptly confiscated by customs, to be ralaased only upon presentation of a bank guarantee for about $3,000. Festival organizers refused to provide such a guarantee. They said their agreement with the customs authorities was that all fectival films were exempt from duty only if they arrived as "unaccompanied baggage." The customs authorities have refused to make an exception.

Efforts by the Government Press Centre and Jay Koller, an Israell wbo represente Golan-Globue, to free the film without such a bank guarantee were not successful.

FESTIVAL secretary Mary Ghadban, an editor at Dar Al Hilal publiching bouse, told The Jerusalem Post that "although something really could have been done by the festival to release the film when all other efforts proved futile." she was reluctant to do eo after the foreign press here began labelling "The Magican of Lublin" an Israell film in disguise. On Saturday night, the Yugoslav delegation to the festival angrily flew home after censors had cut nearly 15 minutes from their film "Occupation' leaving it almost unintelligible."

Many of the cuts from "Occupation" - a film about the Yugoslav resistance during World War Two - depicted a Jew's decision to join the anti-Nazi underground. Similarly, a segment of Hebrew song and prayer was cut from producer Arthur Cohn's "The Garden of the Finzi Continis."

It began to look as if there would be an Israeli film anybow and it "That segment has since been restored, but the whole cansorship became politically sensitive. problem is most unfortunate," said Ghadban, "Now that Egypt is at "It also meant that once the film peace with Israel, there is no reason was out of the airport we would have to study the financing to determine to follow the guidelines cet by the Arah League boycott office in Damascus. FOR RELIEF from all this som-breness I cought refuge in the "Stories Behind the Songs" (2nd Programme, 2:10 p.m., Saturday), that opened with El Rosh Hohar Hopilu, written by Levin Kipnis way back in 1913 during a youth movement outing to the Judean Hills. There was also Beharim Hashemesh Melahetet (lyrics by Natan Alterman and music by Daniel Sambursky), a song of the early 1930s. Sambursky's daughter recalled that the song was originally part of a Zionist musical performed in Berlin and Prague by a Jewish student ensemble and was later put into Hebrew by Alterman. Sbmuel Navon told the listeners how he came to write the text and music of Arten Alime on an autumn morning during the late 1920s: while be was sitting in a cart on the way to Ein Harod and saw the Jewish farmers at work in the fields. All in all, heartwarming and pleasant.

BEFORE its annual trip to Europe. the orchestra gave a farewell con-cert presenting an extremely ricb and variegated bill. Unfortunately Sheriff again included Rossini's emp-ty sonata for strings. It must bore the players by now and encourage negligence. It was a poor performance, the violins competing with each other in false intonations and the cellist unforgivably unprofessional in his solo passages. Luckily everything changed with Partoe' magnificent "Visions" presented by Sheriff and the excellent young flautist Margalit Gafni with profound understanding. The slowly flowing, improvisatory "Taksim" (oriental prelude), the tense, terse, rhythmic middle section, and then a return to the opening mood combined into a perfect A-B-A form. The performance fully captured Partos' oriantal verbalism, his floridity and, in the rhythmic sec-tions, his percussive string scoring. No less excellent was Sheriff's own composition, "Mai Ko Mashmo Lan, " based on the malody of a Ylddish folk eong. Having Mary Emily Mitabell, winner of the recent International Harp Contest in Jerusalcm. as a soloist at the concert proved a great asset. After Sheriff's plece, Miss Mitchell gave us a mini solo recital, a treat of three pieces, all most beautifully played. The golden quality of her tone, her extraordinary awareness of musical expression and nuancs, her impaccable technique made the three pieces an the Bacb suite at best was adequate. There was an occasional slackness in the flow, movements were not sufficiently differentlated and tha orchestrai cound was not as rich nor as homogeneous as one would have wished. As for the two soloists in Bach's doubla concerto, violinist Rafi Rieger definitely made a most positive impression. His formulation of phrases chowed great censitivity and warmth. They came across In wave-like pulses; endowing the music with a strong forward motion. The oboist, on the other hand, seemed rather pale and did not match tha violinist in tons quality nor in musicality. Miss Kolchinsky accompanied with great understanding, creating a fine relationship between the eoloist and the tutti, as demanded in the baroque concerto. In Mozart'e born concerto Mr. Ritzkovsky left no doubt about his technical skill. There were no false notee, no flaws nor slips. But I was not impressed by the quality of the tone or by the musical execution. As in the Bach concerto. Miss Kolchinsky's 'accompaniment was perfect. The conductor's real chance, however, came only with the symphony. It was an enjoyable flowing performance from heginning to end. The orchastra followed the conductor with confidence-and Identification. A satisfying performance in every aspect.

One-crop farming has its dangers new gin being run-in

By MACABEE DEAN Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - About ten of the 51 settlements which are members of the Belt Shean Region Cotton Growers Association are fast becoming "one-crop" farmers. This means that if the crop should be wiped out by disease, or hard hit hy a sudden fall in prices, the eettlements would be gravely hurt financially.

This was stated yesterday hy representatives of the association and of Sly-Shean, the company which owns the cottou gins which process the cotton.

In these ten settiements, some 40 per cent of income comes from cotton crops. The percentage of the income from cotton in the other 41 eettlements is smaller. But since cotton has proved to be a good moneymaking crop, demanding relatively little labour, and high ' mechanization, the "one-crop" trend is steadily increasing.

The association includes settlements not only in the Jordan Valley and the Belt Shean Valley. hut also in the Golan Heights and in the Gilhoa area. At present there are 58,000 dunams being used to raise the short-fibre Akala strain of cotton. Another 25,000 dunams are planted in the long-fibre Pima strain. At the present rate of growth. hy 1982 the amount of dunams given over to raising Akala will rise to $5,000, and that of Pima to 45,000.

The speakers noted that a new gin had recently been built to process the Akala strain. It was now being run-in and would begin to process this year's cotton crop shortly. The new gin was hullt at a cost of IL85m. It was ordered in the U.S. according to specifications drawn up by the association. "Since we ordered the first one, the American company has huilt another five gins for non-Israeli firms," the epokesman said.

The old gin had a capacity of 800 tons of Akala cotton daily, the new one will have a capacity of 450 tons a day. Thus, come 40,000 tons of cotton can be processed within 50 to 60 days. (The Pima is proceesed elsewhere.)

The speakers pointed out that one of the problems facing the association, which accounts for 15 per cant of all the cotton grown in the coun-try, was that the price for the cotton sold in Israel was about seven per cent less than that sold abroad. The authorities had promised to rectify this situation, hut had not yet taken any definite steps.

They claimed that "Israeli cotton had a solld name abroad and Israel can sell all that it producee."

Controversy over new grain silo in Ashdod continues

By YA'ACOV FRIEDLER

Jerusalem Post Reporter HAIFA. - The recent decision hy Industry and Trade Minister Gideon Patt in favour of the construction of a new port silo at Ashdod, "to provide competition for the Dagon silo in Haifa, and to hring tariffs down," has heen dismissed as "not serious" hy experts here. They pointed out that It was clear that hy building a second silo no "competition" would be created, since the amount of grain imported would not he increased and the two silos would shars the same amount of work available, which would inevitably raise tariffs.

At present, Israel's grain imports stand at 2.2m. tons annually, and these imports are increasing very gradually. The Dagon silo in Haifa is already investing $5m. in a renovation programme, which will enable it to handle all expected imports over the next 20 years.

Furthermore, the investment needed to build a new slio would be so heavy that tariffs at Ashdod would. be at least three times higher than those at Dagon, one expert told The Post, He noted that Dagon is charging the government $1.50 per ton for unloading, which compares to $3.50 and to $4 a ton in harbours in the Western countries. Tariffs at Ashdod would amount to $5 per ton, to cover only the capital costs, hs noted.

Regarding Patt's explanation that Haifa port can handle only 30,000-ton nips, while shipping costs, the experts noted. that this would not necessarily result in cheaper rates. The high demurrage charges of the bigger ships make the costs of delays prohibitive, they said.

A Haifa port official toid The Post that for a relatively small sum the harhour could be dredged to enable it to accommodate 60,000-ton ships. Thus for a fraction of the cost of a new silo, Haifa harbour could he fitted for higger ships in general, and not only for grain ships.

As to Patt's claim that by huilding a sllo nearer the large population centres of the country, which would reduce transport costs, it was noted that the railways carry half the grain from Haifa port. "It would be better to spend the money to expand the rall network, for the general good of the economy, and transport more of the grain hy train."

Dr. Reuhen Hecht, board chairman of the Dagon Silo Company, who in the past has frequently aired his, opposition to an Ashdod silo, declined to comment yesterday. The Post has learned however, that Dagon is negotiating with the government to take over manage-ment of the Asbdod sllo, if it is ever built.

Dagon's stand in the past has been that the country does not need a second silo for economic reasons, but that if for security reasons it is decided to huild a second one, It

Koor exports down but six-month profits up 58% By MACABEE DEAN

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV - Exports by Koor dropped 12 per cent during the first six months of 1979, but sales on the local market ross hy 20 per cent. Naftail Blumenthal, directorgeneral of Israel's largest industrial concern, announced recently. He noted that the drop in exports, which amounted to between $60m. and $70m., was due mainly to the loss of the Iranian market.

Most of the local increase was in ths fields of building materiale, and consumer goods.

Net profite increased from IL200m. during the first aix months of 1978 to IL316m. during the comparative period this year. Although this is a "nominal" growth of 58 per cent, the "real" growth actually meant a drop of two per cent. Total sales were ILSb. during the eix-month period of this year, compared to slightly less than IL5b. during the comparative period last year. Gross profits dropped from $.8 per cent of turnover last year to about five per cent this year. Blumenthal said that the high cost of capital during the first half of this year, which amounted to 15.5 per cent of turnover, compared to 14 per cent last year.

the discount rate makes borrowed

These added costs are passed on to horrowers, who tend to reduce their

U.S. interest rates may go higher

WASHINGTON (AP). — The U.S. may be in for still-higher interest ratee as policy-makers try to control monetary growth and fight inflation, Federal Reserve Board chairman Paul A. Volcker hinted Sunday.

Volcker was asked if the hoard's 4-3 vote last week to raise the bank iending rate - or discount rate - to a record 11 per cent signalled board resistancs to a further tightening of credit.

"I don't think that vote suggests a cleavage on the hasic thrust of policy that we must hring the money supply under controi, that we must deal with the inflation problem," Volcker replisd. "I would not suggest that that vote at all indicates what direc-the EMS decision yesterday would have no immediate or drastic effect on the Israeli economy, which regulariy responds to changes in the international money market. Most dealers abroad yesterday saw the rejuggling of the EMS currencies as insufficient. It was con-sidered little more than a provision for breathing space for the world's hadly hattered paper moneys. The rise in the price of gold was considered prime evidence for the lack of faith in paper money with speculators preferring the yellow metal as a hedge against inflation. In Bonn, West German Finance Minister Hans Matthoefer warned that the mark was on the verge of hecoming "dangerously overvalued."

"We've reached the point where we have to be careful and avoid a further overvalnation," Matthoefer told reporters.

Matthoefer eald the German money was especially overvalued against the dollar, considering their domestic strengths.

Despite the mark'e international muscle, and Bonn'e modest inflation rate, prices for food, clothing and other essentials are generally much higher in West Germany than in the MARK secret weekend session that the mark chould rise hy 2 per cent against the French, Italian, Dutch, Belgian, Irish and Luxembourg currencies. Speculation in gold last week was attributed to rumours of the move, but most traders said they were surprised by its suddenness.

In a related development, the Bank of Israel announced yesterday that it had still not received any application from Bank Leumi to allow sales of the Krugerrand. The Leuml group said it was planning to import the gold coins from South Africa, and the Bank of Israel said It was checking the legality of Israelis possessing the coin, since it le not valued at its nominal value, but at 5 per cent above the gold rate.

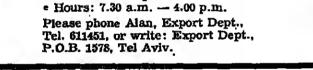

Israeil citizene are currently allowed to possess up to $3,000 in foreign currency but only hold gold

The Union Bank yesterday an-nounced it was negotiating with the Chamber of Mines in South Africa for exclusive distribution of the coin by all members of the Leumi group. The Krugerrand weighs an ounce trov.

Good start in new year for bonds and sha

ODCY Matters

TEL AVIV. - In the first session of the new year, yesterday, both index-linked honds and shares were off to a good start. With the exception of land development and real estate shares, as well as industrials, which traded in a mixed pattern, all eectors showed up with gains. A number of issues enjoyed extra large gains of as much as ten per cent.

.Trading volume was moderate and gave little indication of the general demand for equities. The reason for the low volume was to be-connected with the strike at Bank Leum

The index-linked bond market, in quiet trading, recorded small gains of up to one half of a per cent.

The Israel pound was further devalued, as its price eased by ten ngorot against the American dollar.

In spite of the fact that Bank Leumi branchee were closed yesterday as a result of e labour dispute, the bank's sharee traded three points higher than last Thursday. Happalim chipped in with a two-point gain, while IDB, Mizrahi (B) and General Bank were each onc point improved. FIBI and Union Bank were unchanged.

Mortgage bank shares were led to higher levels by the Tefahot group of securities.

THE DOWNING of four Syrian air force fighters by Israeli planes engaged in anti-terrorist patrols over Lebanon yesterday would seem to be an exact repetition of a similar clash in June in which fivs Syrian warplanes were felled.

The clear initiative taken by the Syrians in seeking yesterday's confrontation seems to have been presaged by Syrian air force feints at Israell planes last week. It also constitutes a clear repetition of the Syrian initiative last June.

Both these Syrian initiatives, and the equally glaring fact that Damascus has refrained from interfering with the Israeli patrols which have been carried out nearly daily for the past few months, are clearly expressions of policy decisions. An attempt to understand the logic behind those decisions. however, must remain in the realm of conjecture.

The Syrians are obviously not in the hablt of easily sacrificing planes and highly trained pilots periodically. Nor can there be any doubt that in the eyes of the Syrian high command, if not in those of the Syrian pilots involved, the active seeking out of contact with Israeli air force fighters can only be construed in terms of suicidal sacrifice.

Given the fact that both Syrian-initiated battles came on the evs of the departure of President Hafez Assad for Moscow on arms buying missions, there would seem to be some basis for linking the two events. There may be some logic in sacrificing a number of outdated Mig-21'a if that Is what It takes to unciench the Russian fist that has been withholding more sophisticated weapons from Assad's army.

The noteworthy aspect of Israel's role in yesterday'a events is the decision to flaunt the role played by U.S. aupplied F-15s in the battle. There is reason to believe that on Israel's part, too, there has been a policy decision to meet head on those critics in the State Department and elsewhere in Washington who have been muzzling Israel'a uss of American supplied weapons in Lebanon.

The unmistakable message is that Israel received those weapons from the U.S. for the purpose of defending herself against very real enemies, some of whom happen to have located themselves in the beart of unhappy Lebanon, which is no reason to grant them immunity from the lethal power of Israel's aerial argenal.

The decision to stand up openly against those American critics seeking to circumscribe Israel's ability to defend herself is certainly understandable. Whether this Israeli position will actually slience those critics in the corridors of Washington, only time will tell.

Africa's second liberation

THERE IS some good news coming out of Africa these days, and some that is not so good.

The good news is that the black continent is beginning to free Itself from the shackles of home-grown, savage dictatorships that have come increasingly to disfigure it during the last decade.

This year has already seen the overthrow of "Marshall" Idi Amin Dada's bloody regime in Uganda, then the ouster of Francisco Macias Nguema's viclous despotism in the Equatorial Guinea, and only last week witnessed the end of "Emperor" Bokassa's child-killing rule in what had been, and is now to be again, the Central African Republic.

NAOMI CHAZAN argues that Israelis should welcome the opportunity to sit down and seek a constructive dialogue with black leader Jesse Jackson.

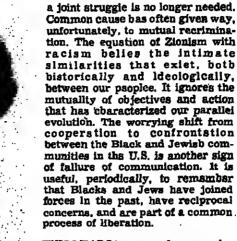

A TIME TO TALK

JESSE JACKSON has arrived in Israel. Personally, I am bappy that he's taken the trouble to come to ses our country and visit with us. At the same time I am sorry thal our government leaders bave seen fit to refuse to talk with him and io beip us all extend to blm the kind of hospitality any visitor to farsel deserves. They claim that his mind is made up, that he has stated a position which is in contradiction to our national interests, that talking with him, would, therefore, be pointiess. What these leaders do not realize is that he, more than many other people that we receivo as guests, is in a position to sympathize with our situation, understand our problems, and to conduct a truly constructive dialogue with us.

The first reason why he would be a good partner in a discussion is that much of Black bistory parallels that of the Jews. Both our peoples bave known oppression, exploitation, and discrimination. Perhaps no other group can comprehend better the full meaning of what It is to be a minority than Blacks and Jews. Jews, like Blacks, were exiled in slavery from their bomeland. It was the Black diaspora in the New World, like the Jewish diaspora in Europe, that was the first to articulate and give an institutionalized form to the widespread desire to liberate Its people from the domination of Weetern soclety. When W.E.B. du Bois and Walter White were laying down the intellectual roots of the Pan-African movement, Theodor Herzi, Leo Pinsker, Ahad Ha'am and others were resuscitating, through

Zionism, the quest for freedom in a Jewish homeland. Zionism and Pan-Africanism were, at their inception, diaspora constructs. Both eaw as the ierritorial focus for their liberation struggles the areas from which they bad been ejected: Zion (Israel) and Africa. The purposes of Pan-Africanism and Zionism In their formative years were very similar -hoth stressed the quest for autoemancipation. The clear parallelism in thought between Zionism and Pan-Africanism did not escape the leaders of these movements. Theodor Herzl stated explicitly that once he had seen the liberation of the Jews, he would like to work for Black emancipation. Du Bois suggested thai Pan-Africanism was a form of Black Zionism, rooted in the organization of energies stemming from the strength inherent in a common group origin. In the inter-war period, both Zionism and Pan-Africanism burgeoned and developed more complex organizations and forms of articulation. Cultural Pan-Africanism found its counterpart in cultural Zionism. The practical political com-ponent found expression in botb movements. Messianism, so

THIS LEADS to a second reason why we should appreciate the opportunity to exchange ideas with Jesse Jackson. Both Blacks and Israelis have common problams and confront similar challenges. The protest phase in the development of both movements, with few excoptions, ie over. The need to move from rejection to constructive action, from a struggie for external equality to selfliberation, is perhape the most perplexing issue facing the two peoples.

The purpose ed a great deal of emphasis on economic growth, the creation of of both movements also underwent social sarvices for all, education, inchange: Pan-Africaniem and gathering of exiles, and cultural revival. American Blacks, too, have Zionism became antl-colonial movements bent upon the achievedirected their energies to giving concrete form to the spirit of equality. close ties between Israel and Black This has meant massive investments Africs until the Yom Kippur War in efforts to Improve bousing, education and joh prospects. It has also been expressed in political action and an increasing dependence on During this post-war period, the self-improvement techniques. The continued vibrancy of the Zionist gathered momentum. The clvil rights struggle of the sixtles in which dream rests on the ability to create in the new Israel an egalitarian, just, and meaningful soclety. The con-tinued strength of Black action in the U.S. stems from the quest for means to endow legal equality with positive, tangible significanca.

The manner in which this selfrealization has been acted out bas, at times, differed. Israel has not been able to deal exclusively with the fulfilment of the constructive facets of the Zionist ideal, eince the integrity of the political gains of the protest period bave had to be defended on the external front. Blacks have attempted to handle these problems by stressing notions of self-reliance. Neither path bas proven problem-free. The need to deal with diverse and pressing issues throughout the U.S. has threatened the unity of the Black movement. In both cases, the involvement with the needs and desires of the specific societies bas wrought an isolation from neighbours, which in itself is barm-accommodation with other groups has become an iseue that must be vigorously addressed.

But even if Israelis have externalized the key question, and Blacks have for the time being internalized them, nevertheless, the commonality of the prohiems facing hoth groups remains unchallenged. So. too, does the basic commitment to non-violence. The search for a viable formula and for positive ceif. expression binds botb groups together. The variegated experiments could be jointly analyzed and alternate solutions devised. A discussion of these matters could be mutually beneficial,

A THIRD reason why a conversation with Jeese Jackson would he important to us is that some of us think that he may, if he comes to understand our position, he of some assistance in explaining our situation to those with whom he comes into contact. Israei once viewed itself as an integral part of the Third World. This perception was evidenced in the concern for economic development and in Israel's unique experiment in international cooperation. The rupture of relations with African states has left Israei not only separated from natural partners, but also isolated internationally. A renewed rap-prochement with the Third World is now a vital necessity. Any assistance in this direction, such as his colleague Andrew Young has attempted in his recent tour of African states, should be welcome.

American public opinion, too, has begun to waver in its attitude to Israei. At the forefront of those questioning historical links between Israel and the U.S. today stands the

(CONSOLIDATED VERSION)

Andrew Young did little to improve relations between our peoples. The way to correct this trend is not by boycotting the Black leaders, but by seeking closar contacts with thom.

True, some of Jackson's recent statements on the Jews, Israel and the PLO have made him suspect certainly in the eyes of our govern-ment leaders. In fact, bowever, his views do not so radically differ from those expressed by many Israelis. While he has come out in favour of Paiestinian self-determination, be has been careful to stress Israel'e right to a secure and just existence: When this involves Palestinian recognition of Israel, we call it the Yariv-Shemtov formula. In fact, Israell officials have beld conver-sations with people who represent 5 the same cause as those with whom he has recently had contact.

In short, there are several valid reasons why he should be an openly received gueet in this country. Perhaps we should say that even if be weren't who be is, and didn't represent those be does, it is rather a shame that some people cannot find time to talk to someone who is interested enough in us to take the trouble to come here to visit.

So, even if there are dls. agreements between Jesse Jackson and us. and some of serious consequence, it is important to recall the close ties that bave linked us together in the past and continue to connect our destinies. Perbaps through meaningful exchange, some of us are naive enough to believe, we can arrive at 8 greater understanding.

tarests of both movements.

When to this is added the reverting to clvilian rule in Nigeria. and Ghana, It may almost be said that Africa is now at the start of a new political era of post-Colonial emancipation.

The exact number of black people put to their death in often the most brutal fashion by those three genocldal maniacs -Amin. Macias, and lately Bokassa - cannot be known. But the figure may well approach one million. The havoc these tyrants have wrought in their respective countries will take years to repair, perhaps as many as each one of them enjoyed in his own murderous stewardship.

Black people everywhere may well ask themselves why it took as long as it did to liberate Africa from these three black oppressors. The answer, it is suggested, is simple: they were black. And because they were black, they were considered somehow untouchable, especially by fellow blacks across their frontiers.

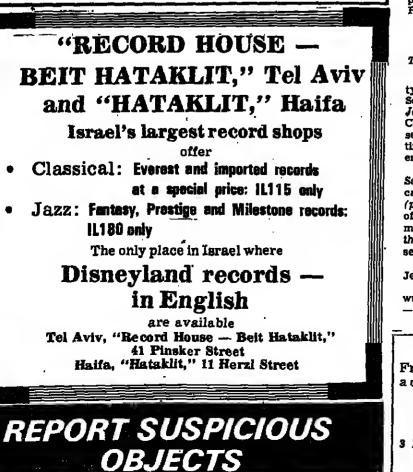

In a world grown increasingly aware of the centrality of human rights, the Organization of African Unity remained resolutely immune to their impact. As far as the OAU was ooncerned, human rights were merely an excuse for western imperialist intervention in African affairs. Except, of course, In Southern Africa.

Thus it could bappen that Idi Amln would be elected president, no less, of the OAU. The woeful lot of the people of Uganda was of less interest to the organization than the plight, such as lt was, of the far-off Palestinians.

In the end It was neighbouring Tanzania that, pushing straight into Uganda, threw Amin out (although a mere three years earlier It cried "foul" when Israeli troops swooped down on Entebbe to rescue terrorist hostages there). Bokassa'a ouster, too, we are told by newly installed President Dacko, was engineered with the aid of a number of friendly nelghbouring countries.

Proof is still lacking, however, that these acts of military intervention were prompted by humanitarian considerations, and not - In Tanzania's case at least - by more down-to-earth motives of political and economic gain.

There is, indeed, no indication as yet that Africans have come to accept that human rights are worth protection for their own sake, and that human rights violators, and their protectors. whoever they are, should be excoriated.

WHO IS A PALESTINIAN?

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Posi

Sir, - In his cogent article, "Very useful problem" (August 24), Moshe Skaron explains lucidiy wby the UN and the Arab countries have a vested interest, in perpetuating the "Palestinian problem." In their propaganda campalgn to maintain this vested interest, the Arabs invented the amhlguity, "Paleetinian people," and, after 1967, foisted upon the world the impression that Palestinian people refers only to Arahs. The Arabs' ploy has been im-mensely successful for them; the Palestinian Arabs have usurped the name, Paleetinian. Thus, almost everyone bas the misconception that Palestinian means only Paleetinian Arab, whereas in the past, people usually thought of Jews in connection with the name Palestinian,

Are not the numerous Israeli Jews who are fifth and sixth-generation Sabras as much Palestinians as the Palestinian Arabs, many of whose forbears came to Palestine because of the economic opportunities opened by the Jewish pioneers?

Before Israei deciared its in-dependence, Palestinian usualiy meant Jew from Palestine. In May 1948, Palestinians naturally became Israelis and were not beard about for 20 years. After the Six Day War the Arabs saw the propaganda possibilities in claiming the name, Palestinlan. Too many people have

To the Editor of The Jerusniem Post

Sir. - I am sceptical of the veracity of your front-page statement of September 17, to the effect that "The Jerusalem Post has learned that Chief Rahbi Shlomo Goren gave the settlers special dispensation to continue work on the site even before the end of Shabbat." Every Taimudist knows that the acquiesced in allowing the Palestinlan Arabs exclusive use of the designation, "Palestinian." Jews have lived in the land for 4,- 000 years. If any people can be said to be indigenous to Paiestine, It is the Jews. But the Arabs, through their shrswd uss of worde, bave manipulated world opinion and have created the widely believed myth that they, rather than the Jewe, are native to Palestine. The Arabs do not have exclusive right to that deelgnation. There are Palestinian Arabs and Palestinian Jews.

Using the adjective, Palestinian, without an accompanying noun has insidious effects: It reinforcee the misconception that only Arabs are native to Palestine. It gives credence to the fiction that Palestine is not the Jews' homeland. In people's minds, It serves to undermine the legitimacy of the Jewa' right to their own homsland in Palestine (which they have in that tiny part of Palestine called Isrsel, while the Palestinian Arabs have a homeland in that llon's share of Palestine calied Jordan).

To counteract the effects of Arab propaganda, precise language must be used. To use ambiguous words euch as Palestinians or Palestinian people is to use the semantics of the enemies of Israel, and to give credence to their self-serving fiction. ROSLYN KOREN Jamaica, Nsw York.
